

PROFILE

Hey there! I am Fernando Maldonado Zavala. A Honduran studying in the Philippines. I have lived here for almost 10 years and have had many interests while growing up, mainly technology.

Over the years I have been fascinated by the speed at which computers are growing and recently how AI has been taking over. The field of computer science encapsulates the core of technology and is what I love so much about it. Below you can find my different contact details and a link to my e-portfolio containing some of the projects I have done and contributed to over my years as a CS student. Cheers!
